1. It's the wedding of Queenie Goonting and Anselm Holmberg, and invitations have been sent out by Queenie's brother and Anselm's sister.
2. Unfortunately, the team hasn't kept track of who is and isn't coming.
3. RSVPs from various family members are pasted around the room as stimuli; students need to go around the room, read the stimuli and determine each of the people's relations to the couple, and by process of elimination who is and isn't coming.

1. Volunteers take on personas of people from different kinds of families around the world. They are called Jenti libru, or Book people.
2. All other students move from jenti libru to jenti libru at your discretion, listening to the stories of the jenti libru about their families.
3. You should ask each jenti libru two to three questions in Kristang and write down their questions on their handout.
